

Hello August

Blending cutting edge worship with pop sensibilities, Hello August is a rock/alternative band that strives to create energy and emotion that is unique and welcoming to the presence of God. Comprised of six “down to earth” individuals, Hello August is a band founded on solid Christian influences.

“Each one of us grew up listening to a wide variety of music - classic rock, jazz, alternative, even country! We were able to combine these different musical influences together and come up with a sound that appeal to a wider audience,” says lead guitarist David Askew. “We hope and pray that you will find this in our new album, All That We Are.”

Starting in 2009, Hello August will be on the road promoting their new album “All That We Are”. This new project was produced by Stephen Leiweke out of Yackland Studio in Nashville, TN.

Hello August believes that, as a Christian music artist, it is their responsibility to be lead worshippers and to create an environment of surrender and dependence on Christ. Above all the trappings of the music business, it is more important to the members of Hello August to focus on their ministry. “We want to fulfill our call in life and stay close to God, we hope that through this, God will change lives and our ministry will have a great impact for The Kingdom.”
